

WITH DIFFERENT EYES

Photographer Jan van Lent takes you ‘shopping’ on his walk along the paths and gardens around Molivos. On Lesvos, wild plants are still an important source of food, medicine and cosmetics. The knowledge and use of these plants, herbs and wild vegetables (in Greek ‘chorta’) is handed down from parent to child, or more often, from grandparent to grandchild.

Jan will share his knowledge of the mythological, medicinal and culinary value of the plants which grow along the paths and in the gardens. A final stretch through the Medieval village of Molyvos will bring us to the ‘farm restaurant’ Perikles. The owners grow their own vegetables, make their own cheese and keep their own livestock.
